

Don McCollin & Maureen Bryan design and make a selection of tactile & sculptural furniture. A partnership that has grown out of their passion for producing pieces that both exploit the qualities of the materials they are made from and also to create something unexpected from these materials.

A pre-occupation with materials as much as with shape and function, has led them to use resins & plasters in a "hand crafted" way rather than using industrial processes. Working also with traditional materials & processes, such as scagliola (used since Roman times & popular in the 18th century to imitate marble) they create bold and inventive contemporary pieces.
